Course Delivery and Technical Course Requirements
This course will be remotely delivered. This type of course delivery means there will be no in-person interactions or any activities on York campus. I will be teaching this course synchronously – which means that I will be holding “live” lectures via Zoom, where the expectation is that we (all students and I) will meet during our scheduled lecture times outlined by the Registrar’s Office’s website. So, for PSYC4061M this means remote, live lectures will be held on Tuesday mornings, 8:30am to 11:30am, starting Tuesday, January 12, 2021. I do not record lectures; however, lecture slides are posted before each lecture on the course website.
In order to fully participate in PSYC4061M you will need to have access to:

1. Stable, higher-speed internet connection
2. Computer (and/or smart device) with webcam & microphone

While this course is being delivered remotely, it is still being run with the same expectations for a smaller class size, fourth year seminar course in which students are strongly encouraged to attend classes and actively engage in class discussions. As such, it is expected that during Zoom lectures that students choose video mode and will be unmuted for this small, seminar course.

Please note: You can use online tests, such as SpeedTest, to determine the strength/speed of your internet connection.

Course Description

This course provides an overview of key theoretical aspects for some of the major counselling/ psychotherapeutic paradigms. The goal of this course is to introduce students to different theoretical approaches to counselling and psychotherapy and provide them with opportunities to critically examine and reflect on the theoretical and technical (i.e., specific treatment interventions) similarities and differences between them. Key differences in theory and practice among various psychotherapy paradigms will be highlighted by the use of a case study. Students will also begin to critically evaluate and reflect on their own values, biases, and personal preferences in relation to these various theoretical approaches through written work, class discussions based on journal articles, and class activities.

Program Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this course, students should be able to:

1. Demonstrate in-depth knowledge in theoretical approaches to counselling and psychotherapy.
2. Critically evaluate, synthesize and resolve conflicting results in theoretical approaches to counselling and psychotherapy.
3. Articulate trends in theoretical approaches to counselling and psychotherapy.
4. Locate research articles and show critical thinking about research findings in theoretical approaches to counselling and psychotherapy.
5. Express knowledge of theoretical approaches to counselling and psychotherapy in written form.
7. Demonstrate an ability to work with others.

Specific Learning Objectives

1. Case studies & in-class exercises will be used to highlight similarities and differences in theory and practice among various psychotherapy paradigms
2. Students will have the opportunity to critically evaluate their own values, biases, and personal preferences in relation to various theoretical approaches

Description of Assignments

A. TEST 1
Date: Tuesday, March 2, 2021
Time to write: 2 hours
Worth: 25% of final grade
Test 1 will consist of 120 multiple-choice questions based on class lectures (lectures 1 to 6; including videos shown in class), textbook readings, articles assigned and discussions in class. Testing for Test 1 will happen using eClass. Further information regarding Test 1 will be discussed in class once the course starts and updates will be provided under “Course Announcements” on the course website.

B. GROUP PRESENTATIONS
Presentation length: 30 to 35 minutes
Discussion post-presentation: 20 to 25 minutes
Group size: 4 to 5 people
Presentation article due: 1 week before presentation
Worth: 15% of final grade
The list below provides the topics and dates from which to choose your presentation. Class presentations will be 30 to 35 minutes in length – this is a strict guideline; your presentation needs to fall within this time frame. You will be given a two-minute warning and you will be cut off to move onto a 20 to 25 minute discussion period where students (and instructor) will be able to ask questions. Class presentations will be a group effort, with groups consisting of a maximum of 5 people. Short excerpts of video material or other visual aids may be used if applicable to your topic and if they add value to your presentation.

As part of the evaluation of your presentation, each group will be asked to provide one article to all class members one week before your presentation that will provide students with some background information and will help to orient them to your topic. As such, one group member will need to email the article to me (instructor) one week before, so that I can post it on the course website. The article that you choose will be evaluated in terms of the appropriateness and relevance to your presentation, as well as how informative it is to classmate’s understanding of this therapeutic approach. Additionally, the coherence and integration of your article into your presentation will be assessed. Each group will also need to send your presentation slides to the instructor by 5pm, the day before you present (so I can post slides on course website). Further guidelines regarding presentations will be discussed in class. Group presentations will be worth 15% of your final grade.

The following are the presentation topics and dates (they are also located in the course schedule).

C. THEORY PAPER/ESSAY

Due Date: Thursday, April 1 via Turnitin by 9pm
Length: 7 to 8 pages, typed, 1-inch margins, 12 font, double spaced pages, not including title page, abstract, or reference list
Format: APA style (7th edition)
Worth: 25% of final grade

There will be a 5% deduction per day that your paper is handed in after the set deadline. Your paper will be based on your presentation topic however I do not want a complete regurgitation of your presentation in written form. Instead, for your paper, I want you to address a current controversy or to engage in a critical analysis on your topic and identify your stance on the issue. In other words, I want you to take what is likely a small aspect of your presentation (or may not even mention in your presentation, and greatly expand and explore this particular issue. Overall your goal will be to provide a sensible and convincing position on a current controversy or engage in a critical analysis (e.g., psychotherapy outcome paper comparing effectiveness of your therapy approach to another model for a particular clinical population) regarding your presentation topic. In this way, those of you in the same group will not all be writing on the same issue and you will be able to put more energy into researching the particular issue you find most compelling about your topic. Each group member is expected to submit their own unique paper that is completed independently from other classmates.

The paper is due on Thursday, April 1st via Turnitin on eClass by 9pm. The paper is to be 7 to 8 pages in length (double spaced, one-inch margins). Please note: the page length indicated does not include the title page, abstract, or reference page. APA style (7th edition) is to be used and will be factored into your grade on the paper. Also, you are required to reference at least 5 recent (i.e., last 10 years) peer reviewed journal articles (although do not limit yourself if you wish to reference more articles). Please note: grammar and spelling will also be evaluated and will factor into your grade on the paper. It is not a requirement; however, I am happy to and would encourage you to briefly discuss your topic and thesis with me.

Marking Rubric for Theoretical Paper (out of 100 marks)

D. PARTICIPATION

Length: throughout the whole course
Worth: 5% of final grade

The expectation for this course is that you will attend all Zoom lectures and engage with the course material. Student participation will be examined in a number of ways during the course. For example, class discussion will be encouraged – sharing your opinions and reflections on course material, journal articles, class exercises will really help you to learn course material at a deeper level and hopefully will lead to lively discussions. Additionally, particular attention will be paid to attending and engaging with student presentations. In order to participate, make sure to read journal articles before the lecture and join in the class discussion.

E. PRESENTATION DISCUSSANT

Due: February 2, March 9, 16, 23, 30, April 6, 2021

Worth: 5% of final grade

For each group presentation, 4 to 5 students who are not presenting on that day will act as “discussants”. Each discussant must email four discussion questions (two based on the article and two based on the presentation) at the end of the class. Discussants will help to lead the discussion following the presentation by noting points of interest and developing questions from the presentation and from the article assigned by the group. In addition, discussants are expected to submit a brief 1 page summary highlighting the strengths and weaknesses of the article at the end of the class where they were a discussant. Further details and guidelines for discussants will be discussed in class. Your role as discussant is worth 5% of your final grade.

F. TAKE HOME TEST 2
   Date Take-Home Test is posted on eClass: Sunday, April 4, 2021
   Due Date: during exam schedule
   Worth: 25% of final grade

The take-home Test will be posted on the course website on Sunday, April 4, 2021. The final take home test will involve applying concepts/knowledge that you have accumulated over the entire course to questions based on case studies provided. That said, for some of the questions, there will be a greater emphasis on course material in the latter half of the course (i.e., lectures 7 to 11). More details regarding the take-home test will be provided during lecture 1 and closer to when the test is posted on eClass.
